SAYS GET BACK TO YOUTH

Advice of Physical Director to Tired Business Men About to Take Vacation Worth Heeding.

Business men about to start on their summer vacations are advised to read dime novels, smoke cornstalk cigarettes and act like "kids" again, by Dr. Louis R. Westmiller, physical director of the West side Y. M. C. A. of New York. His prescription for the rejuvenation of business-worn members of the association has been posted all over the association's building. It reads:

"Forget your dignity, throw away your staidness, and be a kid again—a wholesome, fun-loving, boisterous, dime-novel reading kid—during your vacation. Many of you men, when youngsters, used to think it great fun to sneak out behind the barn, with a cigarette made of cornstalk and brown wrapping paper. It won't hurt you to try the same thing again. You won't be able to smoke enough to hurt yourself, and there's no danger of contracting the cornstalk habit.

"Dime novels make good summer reading. They are next to the Bible for vacation reading, but take the Bible along, of course. Many great men read Nick Carter, Jesse James and like writings for relaxation. Most of you men have come to New York and have made good. Help yourselves to make good again next winter by being a boy on your vacation."

LARGE BALD PATCH ON HEAD

Longmont, Colo.—"About one year ago our little girl was bothered greatly with what seemed a very bad case of dandruff. Her beautiful hair got dry and dead and fell in all directions. One morning I noticed a large bald patch on her head, larger than a dollar, covered with tiny blisters surrounded with an angry red ring. They itched and she never rested at night.

"It was pronounced a bad case of eczema. I was given a prescription which I continued to use till my baby's head was entirely covered with sores and she had lost all her hair. She was compelled to wear a silk cap and I thought she was disgraced for life. A visitor in our neighborhood recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used the Ointment at night and gave her a shampoo in the morning with the Cuticura Soap. In less than three months my girl was entirely healed." (Signed) Mrs. G. E. Ditts, Apr. 8, 1914.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

The Same Thing. Vincent Astor, at a dinner in New York, said of the French evening gowns that have caused so many shocked women to unite in protest:

"I heard a story about one of these gowns. A headstrong girl had purchased it in the Rue de la Paix with out her mother's knowledge, and she insisted on wearing it, the evening it came home, at Armonville for dinner and at the opera afterwards for the Russian ball. Her mother, however, protested. But the girl, in her headstrong way, declared:

"I'll wear that gown or nothing."

"With a shrug and a faint smile, her mother answered:

"Well, it comes to about the same thing."

Denver, July 10.—The story of the shooting of his wife by James Vigil, twenty-five years old, in the two were being on the railroad read a note from the railroad, taken better and in view of the age of the criminal and the cold-blooded deliberation with which he perpetrated the deed, it is doubtful if a more shocking crime has ever been committed in the state.

According to the story of the murder, James Vigil, trudging along the road homeward with a sack of flour on his back, passed Vigil and his wife sitting in their buggy at the side of the road. Vigil had barely passed the couple when he heard a shot fired and saw Mrs. Vigil fall forward into the bottom of the buggy. Morale dropped his sack of flour and ran for his life. There were two other eye witnesses to the killing of Mrs. Vigil, and from their testimony it appears that Vigil who is over seventy-five years old, and several times a great grand father, had jumped out of the buggy, walked around behind it and deliberately shot his wife in the back. Vigil then got into the buggy, covered up the body of his wife with an old quilt, placed the body between his knees and drove a half mile down the road to the house of Juan Mesa, a brother of the murdered woman, and said, "I have brought your sister to you dead."

The woman was shot in the middle of the back with a 45 caliber pistol, the bullet passing entirely through the body, splitting the heart in two and coming out the breast. Death must have been instantaneous. After his arrest Vigil gave up his pistol, which had but the one empty chamber. At the preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Leopoldo Gonzales, Vigil pleaded guilty but assigned no cause for the deed. He later told the sheriff, however, that he had been drunk for three days before this time and was crazy.

Sheriff Cole started for San Antonio immediately and placed Vigil under arrest. There were many threats made against the life of the murderer and it is likely that but for the prompt arrival of Mr. Cole on the scene, an attempt would have been made to lynch him, as the feeling was running high against him especially among the relatives of the murdered woman. Sheriff Cole kept a close guard over him during the night and brought him in here to jail the next morning.

It is rumored that Vigil killed a former wife several years ago in Colorado.
